

The image depicts a laptop screen showing a virtual classroom interface. At the top center of the screen is a large video window featuring a male teacher in a dark suit and red tie, standing in front of a whiteboard. To his left and right are smaller video windows showing female students. Below the teacher's window is a dark horizontal bar containing the text 'BROADCAST LEARNING' in white, bold, uppercase letters. The bottom portion of the screen is divided into a grid of smaller video windows, each showing a different student. The entire scene is set against a blue background with stylized circuit lines extending from the sides of the laptop screen.
